terrorists are a minority in the community, the entire Islam is in a fix over their immature stand.

Ahamed also urged the believers to intensify their fight against the loss of morality and erosion of social values in the society. Extending support to the 'Renaissance Powers' in their struggle should become a major duty of the society. The community would be able to achieve continuous success only if they ensure both unity and ideology in life. Whenever the quality of faith deteriorated the community also lost its upper hand in education and intellectual avenues, he said.
